Vapormatic

Vapormatic PTO Range

Our broad range of Italian and German type replacement drive shafts and components have been developed to meet the requirements of our customers worldwide. Particular emphasis has been given to material specification, machining tolerances and application engineering with these components to ensure safe operation from these hard working products. It is with this focus on providing a hard working product, that our PTO guards are made of a composite construction of flexible material for the cone guard and a rigid material for shaft guarding. The two materials are ultrasonically welded together to produce a guard that is both easy to fit and durable to use. The yokes are formed from steel forgings, not castings and are of a robust design. We only use steel forgings as they provide maximum power performance and a greater lifespan, helping you to save money. Also, the 'Quick Fit' PTO guarding system provides a safe and simple solution to ensure you can fit them correctly and with confidence.
